

DO YOU CARE FOR SOME ONE WHO LIKES TO WANDER?

The Dementia Support Group has created the answer to this problem by way of a very simple ID system. After studying other types of ID we became aware of the very important need to protect the person who has gone missing, and who may be approached by unscrupulous persons. What ever type of system we used had to have Police approval and also had to be available 24 hours a day and 365 days a year. With these facts in mind we have designed a card intended to be carried at all times, It has been translated into most of the European languages so can be used by people who are travelling abroad or by any one who does not speak English. The choice of languages is up to the individual. The only information given on the card is a reference number and a telephone number which will put the caller in touch with Careline who hold the data base. They will be able to provide the necessary information to enable the misplaced person to be returned to home or to a place of safety.
